Intentional Relationships Cont.

So far we have covered the chapters that present how we get relationships wrong, how our relationship with God is THE most important, and how we need to know ourselves. For June, July and August we will be discussing ways to help ourselves have healthy relationships. We always need to put Jesus first and surrender to Him and trust His leading. We also need to recognize the use of boundaries so we know when we are being pushed into something we do not want and how to treat others with respect and how to say no. Our blind spots are another area of discussion. Do you know what your blind spots are? Sometimes we need to ask those near and dear because our own blind spots are difficult to see. We also will be discussing how we can appreciate those of the opposite sex. Contrary to what some people think, there is a definite difference between male and female and we need to recognize and appreciate those differences!!
